BCBC must reduce Courthouse costs

Terrace council will continue its consideration of the rezoning of a parcel at Kalum and Olson following a public hearing on the proposal.

The hearing was held as a mandatory stop in the rezoning of the land to enable the building of a courthouse and health unit on that parcel of Crown land.

About 20 people attended the meeting, including council members and representatives of the B.C. Building Corporation (BCBC) which is responsible for the construction of the facilities.

A brief from municipal planner John McNair was presented outlining several concerns about the proposed development.

Building the two facilities on Kalum will have the effect of extending the central business area to the north and could create a potential adverse impact on land use along Kalum, the brief stated.

Traffic demands would increase in the area which would be a strain on this part of Kalum.

McNair also pointed out that BCBC has requested storm drainage, sidewalks and paving of Olson which do not exist in other areas of town and which could be developed only at substantial cost to the taxpayers of Terrace.

Cost of these off-site services, which have been estimated between $100,000 and $200,000 have been an ongoing point of contention between council and the BCBC with each side denying responsibility.

Representatives from the BCBC did not elaborate on their present stand concerning the off-site costs at the public meeting.

Findings of the meeting were referred to the planning committee of council.

Cst. Terry MacFadden and Sgt. Bud Cummings of the Terrace RCMP Highway Patrol spoke with Caledonia graduating students this week in an effort to curb highway fatalities during graduation time.

Making Grad Night safe

Drinking and driving, a lethal combination at all times, can destroy the festivities at graduation time, in the event of death or injury on the highway.

That was the message from the Terrace RCMP who spoke to the Caledonia, graduation committee this week as part of Grad Awareness '78 a province-wide program to make grad night free of fatalities.

"We want to make grad a happy event," Sgt. Bud Cummings of the Terrace

Highway Patrol told the Caledonia committee.

"We don't condone underage drinking, but we know no matter what we do we can't stop it," he explained.

The point Sgt. Cummings stressed was that if the youths do drink they should stay out of the driver's seat afterward.

Sixteen and 17 year olds are still learning judgement in driving as well as in drinking, and combining the two factors along with the need to impress others can be extremely dangerous.

Every second driver in this age group killed on the road is impaired, Sgt. Cummings stated.

The odds of someone in this age group meeting with a fatal accident are 165 to 1, he said, which are "not very good odds no matter how you look at it."

Sgt. Cummings suggested several ways the grads could still enjoy graduation night without endangering their lives.

Holding parties closer to town, using charter buses, approaching local businesses to sponsor transportation for the night, and getting parents to drive were some of the ways the students could stay out of the driver's seat.

One member of the grad committee described the presentation as "effective" and asked the RCMP to return to Caledonia to give the talk to the entire graduating class, along with a videotape on the subject.

Horner warns against Arab boycott

OTTAWA (CP) — Industry Minister Jack Horner has warned that companies complying with the Arab boycott of Israel will be named by the government in its program to combat the Arab and any other international commercial boycott.

However, in an interview after tabling a report on the application of the government anti-boycott policy Tuesday, Horner refused to name the one company known by the government to have complied with the boycott between Aug. 1, 1977, and Jan. 31, 1978.

Horner said that company, the only one to have contravened Canada's policy in that period, agreed to a general boycott clause in a $25-million contract and had government services withdrawn last August. The company later renegotiated the contract and government services were restored.

Under the latest policy, any company complying with such boycott provisions as refusing to trade with Israel is denied the substantial federal assistance offered to Canadian foreign traders and businessmen.

Until now the federal government has refused to name companies that have complied with the boycott and thus lost government assistance.

"The decision to proceed with naming companies from which services have been withdrawn or denied is a meaningful measure to ensure that the sanction of public opinion is brought to bear on companies or persons who flout the government's policy," the report says. In an earlier report released last February, two companies were said to have complied with unacceptable boycott provisions.

CONDEMNNS REPORT A spokesman for the Jewish community has condemned the latest report, saying it is evidence of the government's weak-kneed approach to the troublesome boycott question. The report was ambiguous and lacked specific comments, the spokesman said.

Horner told reporters the decision to name individual companies which comply with boycott provisions was made by the cabinet last December.

Canada will continue to withdraw government assistance from any company which agrees to suspend all commercial dealings with one country in order to secure a contract with another foreign nation.

It is primarily Arab countries that have demanded companies sever commercial links with Israel as a condition of doing business with them. Kuwait and Libya are hard-liners in pushing the boycott, but Saudi Arabia was showing some willingness to negotiate, the industry minister said.

Horner said ministry officials have been warning companies about the naming provision for almost six months.

However, Canada's policy still falls far short of United States law prohibiting companies from signing contracts with boycott clauses, whether or not they receive government assistance.

Horner said Canada has not gone as far as the U.S. government because, "The American standard may appear to be high in the United States, but it has big loopholes."

He said a U.S. multinational company need only deal through one of its branch offices in Saudi Arabia or any other Arab nation in order to circumvent the U.S. boycott law.

The minister also said withdrawal of government assistance is a powerful deterrent to any company contemplating compliance with Arab boycott provisions.

Dam Blokade

By TIM NAUMETZ
BROCKET, Alta. (CP) — Indians continued to blockade an irrigation dam on the Pelgan Indian reserve today, despite contempt-of-court proceedings facing them in Alberta Supreme Court.

Chief Nelson Small Legs told reporters the blockade will continue, although he said his band still wants to negotiate a settlement in the dispute.

The band is defying an injunction granted last week by the Alberta Supreme Court, restraining the Pelgans from interfering with irrigation workers trying to open weir gates.

The band, which wants compensation for the use of reserve land on which irrigations works are located, has shut off water to a Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District canal for three weeks.

The blockade has cut off water to about 133,000 acres of irrigated land, 900 farm families and 2,700 residents of communities north of Lethbridge.

Irrigation district officials filed a contempt-of-court application which was to be heard in Edmonton today. Small Legs said band lawyers will take the matter all the way to the Supreme Court of Canada if necessary.

REPORTERS BANNED Band officials today banned reporters from entering the reserve, claiming news coverage has created misconceptions.

Indians guarding the weir today turned back reporters. Irrigation workers, backed by about 75 riot-equipped RCMP, inspected the dam Monday but made no effort to reopen weir flood gates.

The central issue in the dispute is contested ownership of 4.1 acres of riverbed land on which the irrigation works sit. The band says those acres were never transferred to provincial ownership and it wants $500,000 in immediate compensation as well as $2 an acre annually for each acre of land irrigated by water flowing through the dam.

Cal Lee, executive director of the Alberta government's Indian secretariat, says the province assumed ownership of the canal in 1975.

Lee said the federal Indian affairs department expropriated 207.88 acres of reserve land in 1922 and sold it to the irrigation district.

RCMP Report

A loader window valued at approximately $20 was smashed by vandals Tuesday, according to Terrace RCMP.

The loader belonged to the Department of Highways and was parked at the gravel pit on Old Lakelse Lake Road at the time of the accident.

A Terrace resident reported his vehicle had been damaged while it was parked downtown sometime during the weekend.

Damage to the rear windshield was estimated at $150.

B.C. Wine stores

VICTORIA (CP) — Rafe Mair, consumer and corporate affairs minister, said Tuesday that he expects the sale of beer and wine will no longer be in government hands in four to five years.

The minister said in an interview there is a trend across North America for governments to get out of the liquor business, but he would not predict what type of outlets would be used in B.C.

"I would not be surprised to see public pressure for wine stores in general and we'll have to look at the economic viability," he said.

"It would probably involve the sale of beer as well." Mair, the minister responsible for liquor administration and distribution, said wine is already being sold from wineries but it will be a long time before the government gets out of the liquor business.

"If we had to start from scratch, I'd say let's go to private distribution. But we're so entrenched in this government business now with so much money involved, public servants included, that the disentanglement process boggles the mind."

The minister said he doubted that privately-owned stores would mean lower prices, and suggested they would not provide the same level of service or the variety now offered by the government monopoly.

Welfare Addicts

VICTORIA (CP) — British Columbia's proposed compulsory treatment program for heroin addicts could cut welfare rolls but is not likely to save money, Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm said Tuesday.

He said many addicts in larger communities are financing their habits with welfare cheques, and possibly handicap allowances.

USSR will change says report

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union probably will be a profoundly different nation socially, economically, politically—even militarily—within the next 10 years or so, says a secret NATO analysis under study by 15 world leaders meeting here.

The portrait, drawn by a special international commission, follows a proposal written by President Carter a year ago. The document is being scrutinized by the heads of state of the NATO countries meeting in a two-day summit that ends today.

Allied diplomats who are familiar with the document, but who would not be named, said it examines the transforming population makeup of the Soviet Union, uncertain energy supplies in the 1980s; a slowdown in economic growth; an ever-increasing arms burden; complications posed by China's developing capabilities; and the nature of the leadership likely to succeed the country's current hierarchy.

The analysis stresses that the Russians are unlikely to unleash a major war of aggression despite a military-spending program increasing at an annual rate of five per cent.

The Western officials released some of the document's content. BIRTH RATE DOWN

On the Soviet Union's changing population structure: —The birth rate of the 150 million Soviet citizens living in the Russian Republic has declined to 15 per 1,000, below the national average of 18.2.

—In contrast, the birth rate in the Asian and Transcaucasian republics has climbed rapidly to between 30 and 40 per 1,000.

—By the year 2000, one of four Soviet citizens, therefore, will be of Moslem origin, nearly doubling the 1970 ratio. The role of Islam on Russian policy, especially in the Middle East, might become increasingly significant. The Asian population still observes some Moslem traditions and lives in the country's southern tier, near co-religionists in Turkey, Iran, Afghanistan and China.

—The NATO analysts left open the question of whether Moscow in the 1980s will be a net importer or a net exporter of oil.

5 killed in Texas blast

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (AP) — Six persons remained in hospital today, two in critical condition, as officials tried to discover what caused the multiple blasts that killed five workers at an oil refinery.

The bodies of three employees were recovered from the plant. Two other workers died later from burns. By late Tuesday firefighters had subdued the last small pockets of flames at the Texas City Refining Inc. plant after a fire that had lit the pre-dawn sky like a noonday sun. A plant official said the burning storage tanks contained kerosene and fuel.

Some 1,400 people evacuated from their homes in an 80-block area were allowed to return Tuesday.

H.L. Coble, who fled his home about a kilometre from the plant, said after the first blast awoke him, "I got up and thought we had left all the lights in the house on, it was so bright from the fire." The blasts were felt in a 32-kilometre radius and Houston police on patrol about 56 kilometres away said they saw an orange glow light up the sky.

Texas City lies on Galveston Bay in an area said to house the highest concentration of petrochemical industries in the world.

In April, 1947, it was the scene of the worst industrial accident in the U.S. when more than 500 people died after a ship carrying ammonium nitrate fertilizer blew up in the harbor.

Tuesday's fire was confined to the Texas City Refining plant, although there are other petroleum-storage units nearby.

Rich Sherman, plant industrial relations manager, said it appeared a small explosion in a butane tank touched off other blasts in the area of one of the plant's refining towers.

One of many pictures currently being exhibited by the Hazelton Secondary School students in the R.E.M. Lee Theatre. The exhibition includes experimentation with acrylics and tempera in abstract, realistic and surrealistic pieces. Recently shown in the Smithers Art Gallery and in Hazelton, the pictures will be in Terrace until the end of June.

The Kitimat Centennial Museum is hosting a photo display called "Plant Life of Our Area in Summer and Winter". This will be available for viewing throughout June, as well as the Toy Theatre, which is already playing the Museum.

SPEC suggests energy survey

By MICHAEL BERNARD VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal government should conduct a regional survey of energy sources to determine how the energy needs of an area might best be met, the Scientific Pollution and Environmental Control Society (SPEC) said today.

Spokesmen for the environmental group told a hearing of the National Energy Board on Canada's future energy needs that the federal government should fund groups concerned about conserving and renewing resources as heavily as it does energy producers.

Terry Chantler, SPEC assistant executive director, said the government lacks an energy policy and that such a survey might assist them in forming one.

Cliff Stainsby, executive director of SPEC group, said that present attempts at conservation suffer from a lack of funding.

He said local recycling projects are not being subsidized by the government. Transport costs for shipping mineral ores from mine sites, however, are heavily funded by the government.

Chantler said the government might find it "socially advisable to encourage these things."

Roger Bryenton, an advisor to SPEC, said an example of using a specific region's energy resources is a steam plant in downtown Vancouver used to heat several office buildings.

USES STEAM

He asked if the possibility of using the steam turbines to produce electricity, had been investigated, noting the forest industry currently uses steam at many operations to produce power.

Bryenton, also a member of the Solar Energy Society of Canada, said there is a danger in applying conservation principles without analyzing costs.

A city of Vancouver study recently showed that it is possible to invest more money in conservation technology such as plastic sheathing in homes for retaining heat and to never retrieve those initial costs.

Chantler said demand for petroleum appears to be dropping and the country's cheapest option is to fund conservation efforts.

Asked whether Canada should develop its heavy fuel resources, Chantler said the country is currently the heaviest borrower in the world and that meeting estimated capital demands of $190 million over the next 15 years would put a strain on the economy.

He said it was far more reasonable to reduce demand.

Meanwhile, Bob Green, director of oil policy and special projects at the British Columbia Energy Commission, said the province plans to file a report with the NEB in Ottawa June 5.

Green said the 70 non-government intervenors were asked to file their reports by April 28 but the provinces asked for and were granted an extension to June 5.

He said published reports about the contents of the energy commission's study were "basically incorrect and speculative" and refused to elaborate.

Concert group elects officers

The Terrace Concert Association held the annual general meeting on Thursday, May 25, in the Terrace Library Arts room.

President Marilyn Davies reported a successful year both financially and artistically, with the Maureen Forrester concert being the high light of the season.

The new officers for the 1978-79 season are:

President - Marilyn Davies
Vice-President - Liz Fleet
Secretary - Gloria Jones
Treasurer - Don McKinnon
Membership - Tony Jones
Publicity - Evva Weber
Hospitality - Carolyn Williston & Janet Webster
Program Director - Skip Bergsma

The Program Director, Skip Bergsma, submitted the list of artists for the coming season with the tentative concert date.

The six concerts include:

The B.C. Touring Opera,
Mountain Dance Theatre,
Collegium Flauto Dulce,
Catherine Cernauskas,
Scottish Baroque, and

Robert Silverman, Pianist.

Bergsma reported the cost of membership tickets would have to be increased by 15 percent in order to cover expenses for the six concerts.

He recommended that season ticket holders have reserved seating and that the price of individual rush seats be increased to $6.

Present concert members will be contacted early in the fall and those persons wishing to hold specific seats for next season should contact Tony Jones or any association member.

The members voted to become a registered society and a committee was formed in order to draw up a constitution to be submitted at the next meeting of the Terrace Concert Association.

Children put out of misery

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — A 35-year-old Cornwall woman, who said she killed her two children to spare them from the miseries of the world, was found not guilty by reason of insanity Tuesday following a two-day trial in Ontario Supreme Court.

Hugette Landriault, charged with first-degree murder, was described by psychiatrists as suffering from a psychotic depressive reaction.

The children, Kimberly, 11, and Brian, 9, died of asphyxiation last Sept. 29 after Mrs. Landriault gave them large doses of the drug Valium and then held a pillow over their heads.

That same evening, Mrs. Landriault attempted to commit suicide by slashing her wrists and left a suicide note for her husband who was working a double shift at a local factory.

Breakwater for Charlottes

A contract for $194,450 to replace the old breakwater at Wiah Point, on the Queen Charlotte Islands, has been awarded by Public Works Canada to Minette Bay Marina Ltd., of Kitimat. The announcement was made today by Skeena M.P. and Minister of State Iona Campagnolo.

"Under this contract" explained Campagnolo "three new floats, each 4 metres by 91.5 metres, will be built and installed as a replacement for the existing log floats which are used at Wiah Point as a refuge harbour. Work will commence immediately and should be completed in approximately 5 months."

Wiah Point is located on the north end of Graham Island, between Masset Sound and Virago Sound.

The note said she hoped to die with her children and spent much of the night lying beside them, court was told.

Dr. Stephen Hucker, a psychiatrist from the Clarke Institute in Toronto, testified that Mrs. Landriault knew that killing was against the law, "but she was fully convinced that she was doing the right thing—that she was putting her children out of the misery of the world."

Sun Life losing market

MONTREAL (CP) — Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada has lost about 70 agents to competitors and about 30 per cent of its Quebec market since January when the company announced it was moving its head office to Toronto, according to a survey of the company's competitors and figures supplied by the Quebec government's superintendent of insurance.

Pierre Boileau, recently-appointed head of Sun Life's new "Quebec Division," confirmed there had been losses but would not give any details.

He said in an interview published Wednesday that the political furor over the head office move, combined with a weak economy, resulted in a loss of new business in individual policies.

But the company said it has not detected any wave of cancellations of policies already in force, and that group insurance has not been affected.

"We are certainly losing young sales representatives but we are keeping our career people, barring a few exceptions," Boileau said.

Sun Life policyholders voted overwhelmingly on April 27 to ratify the move of the head office to Toronto.

One competitor who declined to be identified was quoted by La Presse as saying that when Sun Life agents meet with customer resistance to writing cheques to Sun Life they place new business with other companies without the company's knowledge.

'EASIER TO COMPETE'

Another said it "was becoming less difficult to compete with Sun Life. I would even go further—life is becoming more difficult for all English-speaking companies."

"The issue has awakened a feeling of solidarity among people who would rather see their money remain here."

Most observers agree that Quebec Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau's accusations that Sun Life has underinvested in Quebec by $422 million have disturbed the French-speaking market.

Quebec insurance agents find it difficult to represent Sun Life, said a spokesman for the Assurance-Vie-Desjardins, explaining why agents have been applying for jobs with other companies.

Paul-Emile Burelle, sales manager for L'Industrielle Cie d'Assurance sur la Vie, said he discouraged one such agent from switching because he was making too much money working for Sun Life.

"We also discouraged about 10 other agents," Burelle said.

"We are one of the companies who hire the fewest former agents. We prefer to train them ourselves."

2, 4-D. debate

By ROGER SMITH FENTINGTON, B.C. (CP) — Debate over the use of the herbicide 2,4-D to combat Eurasian milfoil in Okanagan area lakes has escalated into an intense public relations campaign.

As the debate grows increasingly technical, many people are forced either to choose sides on a philosophical basis or to throw up their hands in confusion.

Alderman Rod Barrett, who had to choose sides, voted to oppose a provincial government plan to treat between 300 and 600 weed-infested acres this summer.

"I prefer to err on the side of caution," said Barrett, the only member of council to oppose the plan, in a recent interview. "There are so many things that are said to be safe and then turn out to be dangerous."

"I remember when DDT was supposed to be safe. I also remember standing on the porch when the truck came down the street and getting sprayed."

In casting his vote, Barrett rejected the assurances of Environment Minister Jim Nelson and opted for the cautious approach of those who feel there is evidence that 2,4-D may cause birth defects and cancer.

GROUP CONCERNED

The main local opposition has been the South Okanagan Environmental Coalition, a group of individuals who banded together last spring with the belief that the government didn't have all the answers to questions being asked about long-term effects of 2,4-D.

The coalition set out to find answers of its own and came up with The Other Face of 2,4-D, a compilation by Jay Lewis and Jack Warnock of evidence questioning the safety of 2,4-D.

Nelson called opponents armchair environmentalists who use scare tactics.

Reporter charged with stolen photographs

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Frank Etherington, a reporter for The Record, says he was watching the 11 p.m. EDT news on a local television station Tuesday when he learned he and two other Record employees, including the publisher, had been charged with possession of stolen goods in the theft of police photographs.

Etherington, K.A. (Sandy) Baird, the newspaper's president and publisher, and Wayne MacDonald, managing editor, were named by Police Chief Syd Brown of the Waterloo regional police during a news conference Tuesday.

Brown said a police investigation unit had been instructed to lay charges of possession of stolen property against the three men after the newspaper published two police photographs.

The police chief said the three would be served today with the charge.

SENT ANONYMOUSLY

The two photos were sent anonymously to the newspaper Monday. They were taken by a police photographer in the basement of regional headquarters following a raid on the Henchmen motorcycle clubhouse March 11.

The newspaper carried photos Tuesday allegedly showing members of the Henchmen motorcycle club at police headquarters on March 11.

Brown said he warned Baird on Monday not to reproduce photos Brown said were stolen.

"The pictures they produced in the paper were stolen from police files," Brown told the news conference.

He said he believed the photos were stolen by a member of the police force and charges would be laid if the thief were found.

"I don't know how they can lay charges of possession of stolen property—we don't have the stolen property," Etherington said in a telephone interview.

CONSULTS COUNSEL

Baird said he would not comment on the matter until he had consulted legal counsel.

The Record said earlier the two photographs were copied and returned to police Tuesday.

Police threatened Monday to obtain a search warrant to recover the photographs but the newspaper said the photos were returned before a warrant was served.

In one photo, members of the force's tactical squad are seen standing on one side of a narrow corridor with two members of the motorcycle club on the floor between them—one with what appears to be blood on his face and the other with part of his shirt missing.

On the other side of the corridor, 11 club members and former members are on their knees, heads to the wall, their hands handcuffed behind their backs.

The second photo, taken in another corridor, shows a tactical-squad member and a police dog standing behind eight members of the motorcycle club kneeling with their heads to the wall.

The photos were sent to the newspaper with a note which read: "Talk about what the Gestapo did to the Jews in the last war... how can the (police) commission condone this?"

Police charged one person with possession of marijuana following the March raid on the clubhouse.

Solar energy workshop

On June 24 and June 25, 1978 the Prince George Community Conservation Center and the University of British Columbia will jointly sponsor a solar energy workshop as part of their ongoing commitment to establish solar energy as a practical alternative energy source in British Columbia.

The workshop will consist of a 2-3 hour lecture and slide presentation dealing with specific applications of solar technology in B.C., and around the world followed by the construction, by workshop participants, of a full-scale domestic hot water heating system using commonly available plumbing and building supplies. Workshop participants will be shown the basic construction of flat-plate solar collectors as well as the integration of the collectors into a water heating system. The system will then be offered for sale as an add-on to a present domestic hot water heating system.

The workshop instructor will be Ken Cooper (B.Sc. Mechanical Engineering) who is a member of the Solar Energy Society of Canada and editor of a newsletter for the same organization. Cooper has worked on the design of solar houses throughout B.C. He is the founder of ECON and is a partner in Solar Applications and Research Ltd. of Vancouver. Cooper specializes in Energy Conservation and economic analysis.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the Community Conservation Center at 1220 2nd Avenue, Prince George, phone 564-2533. Deadline for registration is June 9, 1978. There will be a limited enrolment and a fee of $35 will be charged.

Police search for kidnapped Merritt girl

RCMP at MERRITT, B.C. are continuing their investigation into the abduction of 12-year old Monica Rose Jack, while riding her bicycle North on Highway No. 5, approximately 12 miles north of Merritt at Nicola Lake.

She was forcibly taken into a camper truck and her bicycle left on the East side of the highway. The bicycle was later recovered over the bank of the Nicola Lake.

At the time of the abduction, a witness saw a man standing at the edge of the lake, within feet of the truck and camper. RCMP are confident that this person will be located and may, in fact, be involved in this offence.

They are asking for assistance in locating the truck and camper, and have requested that anyone travelling on Highway no. 5, between 7:45 p.m. and 8:15 p.m., on Saturday, May 6, 1978 please contact their nearest detachment of the RCMP or city police department.

Monica Rose Jack was born on the 19th of May, 1965, and is described as 4 feet 8 inches tall, 90 lbs. long auburn hair, brown eyes, attractive features and appears to be three or four years older than her age.

When last seen, she was wearing a white t-shirt with pink floral pattern, brown cord pants and blue running shoes.

Final location of Monica Rose Jack's bicycle, over the bank of Nicola Lake.

Bicycle of Monica Rose Jack, location as reported by two witnesses to be on the side of the highway.

Vancouver crime climbing

VANCOUVER (CP) — Overall crime in Vancouver climbed 15 per cent during the first four months of this year, compared with the same period in 1977, Tom Dixon, deputy police chief, said Tuesday—and the indications are that the increase continued in May.

Attorney-General Garde Gardom said Monday a study by criminologist Dr. Ezzat Fattah of Simon Fraser University showing Vancouver as the crime capital of Canada was based on 1975 data. Gardom said the crime rate had levelled off recently.

Police Commissioner Geoffrey Mortimer said Tuesday he did not believe Gardom had been briefed on the latest figures when he spoke to the House.

Dixon said all types of crime decreased in Vancouver in late 1975. In 1976, indictable offences were down by seven per cent, and 1977, down a further 5.9 per cent.

However, he said, the decline slowed towards the end of 1977 and crime started to climb again in 1978.

The 15 per cent upswing has police officials concerned but so far they are not asking for more manpower. Dixon said the department had obtained a researcher from the British Columbia Police Commission to recommend more effective manpower deployment.

ALL CRIMES INCREASE Break-and-enters are up 35.8 per cent to 3,990 as of April 30. Robberies are up 27.4 per cent overall, with armed robbery up 38 per cent to 98.

In the downtown-west end area, commercial and residential break-and-enters are up 97.1 per cent this year; holdups are up 41 per cent; strongarmings up 29 per cent and pursesnatching up 68 per cent.

There were nine murders in Vancouver by April 30, the same number as a year ago. Attempted murder decreased to four compared to nine in 1977.

Assaults were up 7.1 per cent, sexual offences up 17.5 per cent and auto theft up one per cent. One of the largest decreases this year was charges of assaulting a police officer—only 21 so far this year compared to 45.

Dixon said it was still too early to tell whether the fourmonth upsurge in criminal activity indicated a long term trend.

CRIME RISES IN B.C.

B.C. Police Commission figures for the province show a decline in homicides and attempted murders during the first three months of the year, but an increase in most other violent crimes and crimes against property.

Sexual offences are up 20.2 per cent to 433 through March; assaults increased 8.3 per cent to 4,103 and robberies rose 5.5 per cent to 632.

There have been 18 homicides so far this year compared with 25 in 1977 for a decrease of 28 per cent while attempted murders are down 57 per cent, from 28 to 12.

Breaking and entering is up 8.6 per cent, thefts over $200 have jumped 27.8 per cent and thefts under $200 have increased 5.7 per cent.

Manhandling claim denied

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Surrey, B.C., couple who claimed they were manhandled last July 12 by police in an alleged mistaken drug arrest were denied damages Tuesday in British Columbia Supreme Court.

The jury deliberated more than 5½ hours before finding that the couple had been given sufficient notice by police of the reason for the arrest, and that excessive force had not been used.

Gerald and Sharon Shuck were suing RCMP constables Hugh Stewart, David Moll and Gary Kirkpatrick, Vancouver police detective John Edwards and the City of Vancouver.

Earlier Tuesday, Justice George Murray found in a separate judgment that by law, the officers had reasonable and probable grounds for making the arrest, and therefore were justified in doing so.

Justice Murray left it to the jury to decide if the officers had used more force than necessary, and had adequately and quickly enough identified themselves.

The Shucks sued after they were beset in their car by four men in street clothes in the parking lot of a Kingsway Avenue drive-in restaurant.

Court was told that a hidden policeman had described a woman suspect to the street squad, who thought that Mrs. Shuck was the woman. Police said they followed the couple to their car where they were arrested.

Police said Mr. Shuck was grabbed by the throat—a procedure intended to prevent an addict from swallowing drugs. They said addicts usually carry drugs in the mouth so the evidence can be destroyed if stopped by police.

Court also was told that they feel it sometimes is necessary to punch a suspect in the stomach to stop drugs from being swallowed.

UIC farm fraud found

MATSQUI, B.C. (CP) — An investigator for the Employment and Immigration Commission said Tuesday he uncovered 12 fraudulent claims for unemployment insurance benefits filed by employees of one Fraser Valley farm.

Richard Beaudette was testifying at the provincial court trial of Harbhajan and Gurmit Hayre, proprietors of the farm, and their sister, Baldish Deol, charged with conspiracy to commit fraud.

Beaudette told Judge A. H. Kelly that the claims, which were disallowed, were filed by workers who had been employed in the summer of 1976 as berry-pickers at Hayres Fruit Farm in Abbotsford, B.C.

Prosecutor Wally Oppal said the accused devised a scheme in which their farm workers paid to them kickbacks in exchange for falsified work records, with which the workers applied for unemployment insurance benefits.

The three are charged with unlawfully conspiring by deceit, falsehood or other fraudulent means to defraud Her Majesty the Queen (the commission) of a sum in excess of $200.

The Crown says that the accused guaranteed to provide their summer employees, who usually worked for no more than six weeks, with falsified employment records indicating that they had worked at least eight weeks.

Court has been told that at the time an employee was required to have worked at least eight weeks before being eligible for unemployment insurance benefits.

PERIOD INCREASED The minimum work period for eligibility has since been increased to 10 weeks.

According to Crown evidence at the trial, summer employees of the Hayre farm, after a sixweek work period, would pay the accused sums ranging from $255 to $290 for the falsified records that enabled them to claim UIC benefits for 26 weeks during the winter.

Oppal has called as witnesses several former employees of the farm who testified that they worked for a six-week period in the summer of 1976 and subsequently received from the Hayres a record indicating eight weeks of work.

Karan Pawar told the court she worked at the farm from June 28, 1976, to Aug. 12 or 13, 1976, but subsequently received a record of employment slip which stated she had worked from June 21, 1976, to Aug. 21, 1976.

She said all other employees arrived at the farm after she commenced work June 28 and none remained after she left the farm on Aug. 12 or 13.

Beaudette produced documents indicating that the other workers had been employed at the farm longer than Pawar.

Pawar's husband, Shivcharan Pawar, corroborated his wife's testimony concerning her period of employment at the Hayre farm by testifying to the dates on which he drove her to the farm and brought her home when her job was terminated.

INVESTIGATES CLAIMS Beaudette, who told the court his duties are to investigate dubious claims for the purpose of protecting the system against abuse, said the qualifying work period in 1976 was eight weeks and the applicant was required to have a minimum of $309 in insurable earnings.

Beaudette said he investigated claims filed by 12 former employees of the Hayre farm and found that the period of time worked, according to the work slips provided by the employer, had been falsified in each case.

He said he came to the conclusion that the work records filed with the claims had been falsified after interviewing the claimants and determining the correct period during which they had worked at the Hayre farm. "I believed there was fraud involved in all claims from the Hayre farm, so I put a stop payment on all of them," Beaudette told the court.

Questioned by Judge Kelly, Beaudette agreed that none of the 12 applicants appealed or contested the decision to disallow their applications for benefits.

The trial was adjourned to Oct. 24.

High School nursery

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver school board plans to establish a nursery in one of the city's high schools to help teenage mothers stay in school, board member Dr. Katharine Mirhady, said Tuesday.

Dr. Mirhady, who is also chairman of the Metropolitan Board of Health, said the school board is working on the project with the provincial ministry of human resources.

Funding has not been completed Dr. Mirhady said, but she anticipated the nursery could be operating by September.

"We definitely feel that these girls should have the opportunity to finish their Grade 12," she said.

PACT APPROVED VANCOUVER (CP) — The Greater Vancouver Regional District Employees Union voted 93 per cent to ratify an agreement with the district covering 14 municipalities and three territories in the Vancouver area, a union spokesman said Tuesday. The agreement gives a four-per-cent increase on a base rate of $15,000 a year and some fringe benefits, the spokesman said.

MAN SOUGHT VERNON (CP) — The former parks and recreation director of this Okanagan city, who was suspended last week, is being sought by police on charges of fraud involving money and sports uniforms. John Mahler was suspended after an audit showed suspected misuse of public funds in his department.

NOT GUILTY VANCOUVER (CP) — Donald Harting of Vancouver, who fired a shotgun blast through the ceiling of his home last October, has been found not guilty on a charge of dangerous use of a firearm. Provincial Court Judge R. V. Wong said the Crown had not proved that anyone else was in danger from the blast, which was aimed into the ceiling toward and empty upstairs room. Harting told police he was despondent at the time.

CHARGE STAYED PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A manslaughter charge against Louis Solonas, 59, of MacLeod Lake, B.C., was stayed in county court after he was found mentally unfit to stand trial. Solonas was charged after his wife, Jessie, 61, was stabbed to death last July at the couple's home.

Anethical

Inflation, as a topic, in Terrace is generally regarded as something remote. Something out of Ottawa, or the big cities in the south. When a person goes shopping and finds the price paid yesterday has jumped ten to twenty cents today, the reaction, now, is more or less to accept it as inevitable. At one time, if an item was up only a few cents it would be questioned and comparisons would be made with other stores, before buying. Somehow, this is not the practice today, in Terrace.

Almost no one questions WHY an item jupps, and jumps again in price, assuming this to be inevitable. Such a practice of resignation, and unquestioning acceptance is a strong temptation to merchants to keep raising their prices with each new shipments of goods. Should customers ask why a price is up, there is the feeling in the back of the merchant's mind that he can always use the squelching reply that "everything is going up." Never does a merchant produce his invoices or reveal his percentage of profit.

As an example, the writer took over a small business about a year ago, in a Western province. A novelty item—a key-chain with a miniature but real harmonica attached, was much in demand. It was selling for 98 cents. When we re-ordered, we thought it best to check on the cost price to the store, in case the price had gone up. Much to our astonishment, we learned the Hong Kong made item we were selling for 98 cents cost us 9 cents each!

It pays to check when you feel an item is overpriced. Don't accept anyone's word about costs going up to the seller—unless he is willing to show you his invoice. (Usually, he won't be!) The practice of revealing one's cost price to the customer is always said to be "unethical".

However, is it more unethical to overcharge the customer? Which is worse?

Bilingualism translates to French

Ottawa Offbeat - by Richard Jackson.

Ottawa-Hull, - Notice the new dateline? It's correct.

The new National Capital.

When it was introduced - softly, softly - a couple of years ago, there were protests.

Traditionalists said that Queen Victoria had designated Ottawa the National Capital, that it was entrenched in the history of the country, enshrined in the understanding of the constitution and engraved on the map of the world.

Prime Minister Trudeau paid no attention to the mild mewlings of the pussy-cat protestors.

And so you are stuck with it.

Stuck as with Agriculture Canada, Statistics Canada, Transport Canada, Supply and Services Canada, Fisheries and Environment Canada, Revenue Canada.

And of course, Air Canada -- after the style of Air France.

It used to be National Revenue, the Department of Transport, and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

It's not Ottawa-Hull, you say, but still Ottawa?

That's not what the federal government decrees in its official guide, as published by the National Capital Commission, designating the hyphenated two-city, Ontario-Quebec, twin metropolitan region as the heart of the nation.

And the National Capital Commission is not alone in the designation, it being accepted by other federal agencies in their publications.

It's all part of Pierre Trudeau's grand strategy -- for national unity if he can win over Rene Levesque, and for the oncoming election campaign -- based on "making Quebec feel wanted and at home" through bilingualism.

The odd thing here in Ottawa-Hull is that bilingualism comes only after unilingualism -- French -- has been tried.

Call the office of any member of the Trudeau cabinet and you get "bonjour," the greeting in French first, and only if you respond in English is lip service paid to bilingualism.

Watch the "career" advertising in the Ottawa English language press and see the increasing demand for bilingualism as an essential qualification.

Here again bilingualism translates into French.

THIS WEEK

from Ottawa

Iona Campagnolo

The recent civil war, and the continuing instability in the African country of Zaire are strong reminders of the dependence of our economy on international conditions.

DAMAGE BY INVADERS

The Town of Kolwezi in Zaire's Shaba Province - the scene of the tragic events last week - is the site of the world's largest single mining complex, and damage caused by the rebel invasion has at least temporarily closed the area's copper mines.

I have been monitoring this situation very closely because of its important implications for Stewart, Granisle, and other potential copper mining areas of northwestern B.C. Officials in the Department of External Affairs have advised me that the Kolwezi copper mines are now shut down for two reasons. European personnel, who acted as managers and maintenance workers, have been evacuated - and without their skills the mines cannot operate. And, as the Europeans left their jobs, the pumps that must operate constantly to keep the mines free of water were shut down - and the mines have since become flooded. As a result, a great deal of essential equipment has been destroyed.

Accordingly, it will be at least six months before the mines could return to full production, and then only if the Europeans were to return immediately, and if there were substantial outside aid to help replace damaged equipment. Neither seems likely to happen at an early date, so a more realistic assessment for a return to full production is probably a year or more.

Council Comment

Courthouse decision

Following is a report from one member of Terrace council commenting on an issue currently being discussed by council. This is not necessarily the view of the entire council, but only that of the writing alderman.

by Ald. Alan Soutar

This week the citizens of Terrace were invited to a public hearing to comment on the location of the new provincial courthouse and health centre. Very few attended. It seems that everyone is content to allow the seven members of council to decide in their own wisdom on the merits of the Kalum Street site.

Being a partner in the firm of architects designing the courthouse, as well as an alderman, I did not take part in that discussion, nor will I vote on the issue. It can be said that there exists a conflict of interest. Being muzzled through circumstance on an important issue affecting the public is a frustrating experience.

The rest of council in deciding which way to go, will have to weigh all the good points against the bad and, also, ignore the rumours of phoney issues that for one reason or the other have arisen.

For the rezoning the list of arguments would include the facts that:

1) both buildings fit into the future role of Terrace as the Pacific Northwest's regional centre. From here the health of the area will be administered, and the courts supervised.
2) Government office space is a good, clean secondary industry. Pay cheques are paid promptly.

3) The urgent need for such a development has been seen by both the present and former senior governments. Much planning by many people of various skills and political shades have carefully built the case over many years for both administrative centres. Present Health offices are spread all over town and currently the courtroom is totally inadequate.

The complex will contribute in excess of $100,000 every year to the Terrace coffers. One million dollars every 9 years. Present taxes are approximately $4,000 per year from the 12 acre Kalum Street site.

5) Our local construction men will be employed. Cash will flow.

6) New families of people who work in the complex will find permanent homes in Terrace, stabilizing the economy.

Alternate sites were found to be either not available or too expensive to acquire, and since the government owned the Kalum Street site already, any further acquisition of land would be wasting provincial money.

8) Turning down the proposal will mean, at best, a 2 year delay in finding another site. Over $200,000 in missed tax revenue.

NO IMMEDIATE HELP

Although this reduction in African copper production will work to reduce the current world surplus, and increase the price of copper, it does not appear that this will rise sufficiently to be of immediate help to the town of Stewart. The Granduc copper mine at Stewart is scheduled to cease production in June - because prices are too low to meet costs; and company representatives advise me that they would need a price of close to 80 cents a pound to break-even. Current copper prices are in the area of 62 cents a pound, and though this is well up from last winter's price of 54 cents, it is still far from being profitable. As a comparison, South American copper mines (in Chile and Peru) can produce profitably at prices under 40 cents a pound.

BREAKWATER IMPROVEMENTS

In other news, I am pleased to report that steps by the Department of Fisheries and the Environment to upgrade breakwaters in a number of remote areas are well under way. In the past week tenders have been called for proposals to replace the old breakwater in Port Clements and to construct a new facility at Kincolith, and a contract for $194,450 has been awarded to Minette Bay Marina Ltd., of Kitimat, to replace the old breakwater at Wiah Point, on the north coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

COAL TO ROMANIA

The announcement this week by Quintette Coal Ltd., that it has reached an agreement to sell to Romania 2,000,000 tons a year of coal from northeastern B.C. is good news for our area.

Aside from the general economic benefits created by extra employment and increased export sales, this coal - along with other upcoming production from northeastern B.C. coal mines - will be shipped via the Port of Prince Rupert, and it is quite likely that the Romanian coal could represent the first shipment through the port facilities at Ridley Island currently being developed by the federal government.

Against would argue that:

1) The CanCel property is better because it is on Lakelse Avenue, our main street, and its present zoning need not be changed.

2) The cost of services to the Terrace taxpayer for the Kalum property will be approximately $100,000 which is assumed to be more than that required for the CanCel property.

3) The proposal is more suited to be close to commercial zoning than to residential, therefore a site such as CanCel on Lakelse Avenue would be more appropriate.

4) A building as important as the courthouse needs to be located fronting on Lower Little Park or some other site of significance in town, rather than being tucked away on Kalum Street.

Rumours that council will be wise to ignore, since they are not true, are:

1) Soil conditions are poor and expensive to build on.
2) Roads will become congested because of the traffic generated.

3) Commercial buildings will gather around the site like bees around a honey pot.

4) The site is a bog which runs full of water every spring time.

5) That council was not aware of the plans for Kalum Street site. Both members of council and the administration reviewed location with government officials.

6) Government ignored our zoning maps.

Perhaps more people should have voiced an opinion at Monday night's meeting?

Now, whatever happens, council has to make a decision. Is that difficult?

The Economy

by Frank Oberle, MP

What to do to resolve our economic problems? That seems to be the cry heard most often throughout Canada in these troubled times, and I am certainly no less concerned than any others. We all know the inherent difficulties facing our overburdened economy. We also know that there are no immediate answers. Business and labour have joined with the public and the opposition parties in demanding economic reforms. In my opinion, I feel Canada should revise industrial strategies to compete with the industrialized world on a more equitable basis.

Learn from Others

We can profit a great deal from the experience of others. If we look at Japan, for example, the 20 billion dollar trade surplus that nation enjoys is more due to their overall economic policies than to their industrial strength. The Japanese simply do not support industries that cannot compete in the world market, instead they concentrate on areas where they have proven expertise and advantages; like ships, cameras, electronic goods, steel, cars and motorcycles. When faced with imports in fields like textiles, where Japanese labour costs prohibit effective competition, they phase out the domestic industry and rely upon imports from other nations. At various times the Germans, Swedes, Finns, Danes and Swiss have adopted similar strategies and it certainly has not done them any harm either.

The idea that we can do everything better and more cheaply defies logic. Not only is this a denial of economic theory, but it defies common sense. The attempt to achieve this has been an impossible task and has made our economy one of the most expensive in the world. At one time, we agreed to increase our imports of textiles from developing countries, but as the economy faltered we resurrected tariff barriers that cut back imports. Now others may be playing the tariff game unfairly too. However, they seldom do so at their own expense. We need to put our workers in more soundly based, growth oriented industries. The traditional national policies that encouraged industrial development in Toronto and Montreal and resource extraction to feed those machines everywhere else, just do not apply to rational economic planning in Canada today.

What is the government doing?

The question must ultimately be put to the government, who by virtue of the enormous spending power they have assumed, take the lead in economic and fiscal planning. The fall of the dollar is a direct reflection of our poor economic performance and our weak industrial base which we support at our own peril.

The Minister of Finance would have us believe that the billions of dollars we have asked for and received in credit are a token of the faith others have in our economy. They reflect only the strength of our resources, and in no way stand as a token of the faith of foreign investors. If these loans were refused, the result would precipitate a dramatic falloff of the dollar. The International Monetary Fund can impose conditions upon its loans, and that is by no means the most remote possibility facing us. The government's attempt to support the dollar has already cost us enormous amounts in terms of investor confidence and investments, and as a result we have to continue borrowing just to meet the interest payments on more than 6 billion dollars worth of loans and standby credit.

The present administration cannot seem to get a grip on this fundamental problem. The 48 billion dollar budget for this year actually assumes that 50 cents of every dollar generated in goods and services in Canada will be spent by the federal government. That is the biggest single factor underlying domestic inflation and high unemployment.

We are all paying the high costs of Mr. Chretien's plan to stimulate consumer spending and buy a few votes. Election gimmicks have not worked in the past, but none has failed quite as badly as this latest ploy.

What to Do

The solution to our problem is obvious, although not easily reached. We need to make constructive use of domestic funds. The best means of accomplishing this is to improve our industrial productivity, establish our potential energy self-sufficiency, and work towards the conversion of our raw materials into marketable finished commodities. That is not pipe dream; it is a conceivable strategy. It will take time and effort, but it will take a great deal longer, and cost a good deal more if we delay any further. We really do not have all that much time left, because Canadians are not the only people running out of patience with this government.

Recycling
research

Editor:

Prince George Recycle-Research, a federally funded Canada Works project, is involved in researching the feasibility of recycling in the area, as well as researching efficient and economical methods of utilizing the wastes generated here.

We are currently working on a working model of a depot operation and we are interested in tying the northern towns into our system, with Prince George being the central collection and distribution point and the northern towns operating volunteer depots. These depots could ship their recyclables to Prince George to reduce their transportation costs and receive a fair return.

We would like to hear from interested citizens concerning this concept.

The Terrace Association would like to express its appreciation to the following organizations and individuals for their contributions towards the success of the trackmeet and related activities.

The Catholic Women's League — provided and served the food for the banquet held Saturday evening.

The Catholic Church — for the use of Veritas Hall for the banquet and dance.

Allan Wooten and the Caledonia Community Recreation Class — for their assistance in organizing and running the events in the trackmeet.

Terrace Cerebral Palsy Association — for the use of their van for the weekend.

District of Terrace Recreation Dept. — for the use of the arena and facilities.

Members of the rock band "Perception" — for providing the music for the dance.

Mrs. Jan Thomson — for providing her services as a bus driver to out of town participants.

The ladies who helped provide breakfasts for the out of town participants.

Heather Gurnsey — for providing her services as a nurse throughout the weekend.

Finally, to those too numerous to name, who contributed their time and effort to act as counsellors and event officials or to man a table at the trackmeet and were around to lend an extra pair of hands when it was needed. Thanks.

Palmers tee for tour

TORONTO (CP) — Five prominent players will be missing when a $100,000 Ladies Professional Golfers Association tournament gets under way Thursday at the St. George's Golf and Country Club.

Jeff Adams, a co-ordinator with the LPGA, explained that a variety of injuries will keep Sandra Palmer, Sally Little, Carol Mann and Pat Bradley from competing as planned in the 72-hole event.

Rooke sensation Nancy Lopez, who has won the last three LPGA tournaments, did not enter.

Palmer, who finished 17th in last week's tour stop, sprained an ankle during the last round. Little is still recovering from the effects of an operation, Bradley has a problem with her wrists and Mann has an aching back.

Another factor in the absentee rate may be that the 72-hole LPGA championship is being played next week at Kings Island, Ohio.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Arnold Palmer, the man who helped make the pro golf tour a multimillion-dollar business, has accepted an invitation to play in the Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship here Aug. 17-20, tournament organizers announced today.

Palmer has won 61 tournaments on the United States tour and 18 foreign titles. He won the Canadian Open in 1955.

Palmer joins five national champions in the $100,000 event at the Shaughnessy course. The others are George Knudson of Toronto, Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, Patrick Cotton of France, John Bland of South Africa and Simon Owen of New Zealand.

About the only flaw in Palmer's impressive record has been his inability to win the PGA title in the U.S.

Lawrence might lead Wade's Alouettes

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP) — Montreal Alouettes, defending Grey Cup champions, are heading into the 1978 Canadian Football League season with their quarterback situation a large question mark in the mind of rookie head coach Joe Scannella.

Scannella is holding a rookie camp here, with the veterans scheduled to report during the weekend.

And while veteran quarterbacks Sonny Wade and Joe Barnes appear likely to repeat as No. 1 and No. 2 — not necessarily in that order — dark horse Larry Lawrence has appeared.

Lawrence was a member of Jim Duncan's Calgary Stampeders in 1970 when Wade and the Alouettes, under the direction of Sam Etcheverry, beat the Western Football Conference champions for the Grey Cup.

Wade also led the Als to the national championship in 1974 and last season.

In 1977 Barnes led the Alouettes to seven consecutive victories before he was injured in the eighth game and Wade inherited the starting roll for the remainder of the season.

World Cup Soccer kick-off starts in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (Reuter) — Defending champion West Germany and first-match opponents Poland headed for Buenos Aires in readiness for today's kick-off of the 1978 World Cup soccer finals.

The two teams have been staying at training camps well away from the bustle of this city of 10 million people, the West Germans under strict guard near Cordoba and the Poles in Rosario.

West German manager Helmut Schoen announced his lineup Tuesday night, opting for a defensive 4-4-2 lineup for the tough encounter against the Poles.

Poland lost 1-0 to West Germany in the 1974 semi-finals and manager Jacek Gmoch says the moment has come for Poland to take revenge.

Strict security is being enforced for the match at the River Plate Stadium with all surrounding roads closed for four hours before the match.

EARLY GUARD

Police will go on duty outside the stadium eight hours before the match starts and the gates will be open to the public five hours before the kickoff.

A capacity 75,000 crowd is guaranteed and the opening match will be beamed live to a television audience estimated at more than one billion people.

The prime of Argentina and archbishop of Buenos Aires, Msgr. Juan Carlos Aramburu, will bless the tournament and a colorful opening ceremony will include the release of pigeons, a gymnastic display and a parade by bearers carrying flags for the 16 participating countries.

Journalists, meanwhile, were pressing tournament officials to sort out confusion about match tickets. More than 5,000 journalists are covering the tournament and many were still without tickets Wednesday.

Some journalists have more tickets than they requested while others have none at all. The computerized ticket system appeared to be operating under its own rules without much regard for the host of problems it was creating.

Whales spotted

by Don Pearson
Custom Sports

Tide this morning at MK Bay Marina is high tide 11:20 at 12.5 feet. Low tide at 5:20 at 5.7 feet.

Douglas Channel fishing is still very good for Spring, although most of the salmon are not big, there are still many large fish coming in. The area between the marina and Cleo Bay was quite productive last night. Four boats limited out yesterday.

Hot Spots were Entrance of Cleo Bay, Sue Channel and Jesse Falls.

A large pool of killer whales were seen out from Bish Creek yesterday afternoon. Most fish are being taken at a depth of 30 to 40 feet on Herring strip.

Vic dumps Richmond

VICTORIA (CP) — Doug Angrove scored four goals Tuesday night as Victoria McDonalds pounded Richmond Roadrunners 20-10 in a Western Canada Junior Lacrosse League game.

Wayne Reeve added three goals and four assists for Victoria, which led 8-3 and 16-7 by periods. Jim Northey scored three goals for Richmond. Victoria outshot the visitors 59-50.

McDonalds moved within two points of second-place New Westminster Salmonbellies with their 5-4 record.

Top spot reversed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The teams with the best records are having the worst results this week in the Pacific Coast League.

Tacoma Yankees, first in the Western Division and sporting the best percentage in the league, lost Tuesday for the second straight time to the Spokane Indians, 5-4 in 12 innings.

Albuquerque Dukes, who had moved into first place in the Eastern Division on Monday by defeating Tucson 5-4, lost to the Toros 4-2 on Tuesday but remained half a game ahead of Phoenix as the Giants dropped a 7-4 decision to Portland Beavers.

Vancouver Canadians, a 1½ games behind the Yankees, were defeated by San Jose Missions 5-4, and Salt Lake City Gulls made a shambles of Hawaii Islanders 14-6.

Duane Espy's pinch-hit double in the 12th inning drove in the winning run for Spokane as the Indians went into extra innings for the second straight night against their cross-state rivals.

KEATHE CHANCEY drove in three Tucson runs, including the winning pair on a triple in the fifth inning, and scored once for the Toros.

Rob Ellis wielded the big bat for Portland as he homered to snap a 3-3 tie in the fifth inning, drove in another run and scored twice for the Beavers. It was Portland's eighth victory in nine games and the second straight over Phoenix.

Luis Delgado put San Jose ahead with a two-run single in the fifth inning. Jack Pierce hit a solo home run for the Missions, and Andy Dyes added an insurance run in the eighth inning when he singled, stole second, moved to third on a throwing error by Vancouver catcher Bruce Robinson and came home on a balk by pitcher Steve McCatty.

Cup Odds

LONDON (Reuters) — A London firm of bookmakers will have to pay out $1.9 million if Iran wins the World Cup soccer tournament in Argentina.

A spokesman for the firm said Wednesday they had taken a total of $1,900 in bets on Iran at odds of 1,000 to 1 and have now halved Iran's price to 500 to 1.

On other World Cup contestants, the biggest bets taken by the firm have been $9,500 on Brazil at 3 to 1, the same amount on Holland at 8 to 1 and $1,900 on Sweden at 50 to 1.

Bets on Scotland with the firm, mostly in small amounts, total $47,500.

Prices—9 to 4 Brazil, 4 to 1 Argentina, 7 to 1 West Germany, 8 to 1 Holland, 14 to 1 Italy and Poland, 20 to 1 Hungary, 22 to 1 France, 25 to 1 Spain, 40 to 1 Sweden, 50 to 1 Peru, 60 to 1 Austria, 100 to 1 Mexico, 500 to 1 Iran, 1,000 to 1 Tunisia.

Bullets bounce back

SEATTLE (AP) — Whether you're rooting for Washington Bullets or Seattle SuperSonics, big leads spell big trouble.

"I really don't think big leads are that important," said Bullets coach Dick Motta, who watched his players dig themselves out of a 15-point third-quarter hole and climb past the SuperSonics 120-116 in overtime Tuesday night in the fourth game of the National Basketball Association championship series, now deadlocked at two wins apiece.

"I said it earlier in the series, it's difficult to keep a 15-point lead," added Motta, whose Bullets learned that lesson the hard way in the first game when they saw a 19-point, third-period lead evaporate into a four-point Seattle victory. "That 24-second clock dictates that you have to keep playing."

Tuesday night's game had a record 39,457 fans in the Kingdome on the edge of their seats throughout the final frantic minutes.

The SuperSonics appeared headed for a runaway victory after rookie forward Jack Sikma's three-point play gave them a 85-70 lead with 2:22 left in the third quarter. But suddenly, Seattle stopped running, began taking bad shots and the big lead slowly began to dwindle into a big disappointment.

WILL PLAY HARDER

"We'll come back and play harder Friday, and we'll win," said Seattle guard Dennis Johnson, who scored a career-high 33 points and blocked a Bobby Dandridge shot in the final moments that assured an overtime session.

The Bullets tied the game midway through the final period, in which they outscored Seattle 28-19 and led 106-104 after forward Bobby Dandridge hit a three-point play with 20 seconds to go.

But clutch-shooting guard Fred Brown sent the game into overtime with a jumper from the right corner with 14 seconds on the clock.

The Bullets led the rest of the way.

Alan, of the Tyke division Sharks, checks a Johnson, Barclay and Scaiffe player, who is attempting to clear the ball out of his end. In other action Tuesday night Dees Flower Power beat Majestic Jewelers 11 to 6 and Kitimat Landscaping downed OK Tire 8 to 2.

Pride pushes Lafleur to display "real thing" at home

By AL COLLETTI

NEW YORK (CP) — The way Guy Lafleur of the champion Montreal Canadiens tells it, there was the Stanley Cup parked on the lawn of his home in Thurso, Que., while his excited father phoned every friend in town to come and see the real thing.

"Thousands showed up," Lafleur told a dinner of the Canadian Society of New York on Tuesday night. It was a change of pace for the society, a group of Canadians and Americans, generally from banking, bond houses and business circles.

Instead of the usual Canadian political figure as guest speaker, they heard from Lafleur, Yvon Lambert, Steve Shutt and Michele (Bunny) Larocque of the Canadiens; Denis Potvin, Clark Gillies and Gerry Hart of New York Islanders, and John Ferguson, general manager of New York Rangers.

Lafleur told the society he and a friend told the cup—"steal" was the way Guy put it—from publicity director Claude Mouton's locked car outside a Montreal tavern, using a set of duplicate keys they had made.

Lafleur said that after Montreal won the cup against the Bruins in Boston in the sixth game May 25, there were the traditional celebrations for the Canadiens after they returned to Montreal.

STOPPED AT TAVERN First, there was a stop at Joe Blake's tavern.

Mouton brought the cup along because, as Lafleur put it, Blake is one of the all-time greats of the Canadiens as player and coach and likes to have the cup in his place.

The celebrating Canadiens then visited another former Canadiens' star, Henri Richard, at his tavern. The tour was well under way, and the purloined cup plot well hatched.

Lafleur said: "I talked to one of my friends, who is not a player, and I said I'm going to get Claude Mouton's keys and have some keys made and I'm going to steal the cup from him and I'm going to keep it for a few days.

"After Henri Richard's, one of my friends got into Mouton's trunk and put it (the cup) in my car and I drove it home."

When Lafleur got the cup to his Thurso home, nobody knew it was there. "So I just left the cup outside the house on the grass," Lafleur said.

His dad asked him if it was real, and Guy assured him it was.

"So my father got on the phone and phoned all his friends. Thurso is a small town with just about 4,000 people, and I think we had 5,000 there. They really enjoyed it and I know those guys, they never had a chance to see the cup. I was proud."

American League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit rookie Steve Baker says he doesn't like to face the same team twice in a row and you can imagine how Texas Rangers feel about their second successive fruitless run-in with Minnesota's Geoff Zahn.

Baker, a 21-year-old right-hander pitching in only his second major league game—both against Baltimore—held the Orioles to three hits in seven innings Tuesday night as the Tigers snapped a seven-game losing streak with a 5-2 American League baseball victory.

"I kinda like being a stopper," said Baker. "It's a challenge to go in there and try to break a losing streak."

Meanwhile, Zahn and Mike Marshall combined to shut out Texas for the second time in nine days, both by 2-0 scores.

In other American League action, Boston Red Sox blanked Toronto Blue Jays 4-0, Cleveland Indians tripped New York Yankees 5-1, Milwaukee Brewers edged Oakland A's 2-1 and Chicago White Sox downed California Angels 6-2.

IMPRESSIVE STATISTICS Baker, called up last week from Evansville of the American Association where he had a 4-0 record and 1.88 earned-run average, held Baltimore to one run over 6 1/3 innings in his debut last Thursday—a game eventually lost by reliever John Hiller. This time, Hiller came on in the eighth and retired all six batters he faced to preserve Baker's first big-league triumph.

"I don't like throwing to the same team two games in a row," Baker said. "I threw more breaking balls the last time and that made my fast ball more effective this time."

Aurelio Rodriguez hit a pinch two-run homer for the Tigers, while Alan Trammell drove in two runs with a grounder and an infield hit.

Twins 2 Rangers 0 Zahn, who pitched 7 2/3 shutout innings in beating the Rangers in his last outing May 22, allowed five hits in eight innings in extending his shutout string against Texas to 15 2/3 innings.

Red Sox 4 Blue Jays 0 Dennis Eckersley, backed by solo home runs from Rick Burleson and Dwight Evans, pitched an eight-inning first shutout in a Boston uniform, his fifth triumph in six decisions and the Red Sox's eighth consecutive victory.

Indians 5 Yankees 1 Rick Wise pitched a four-hitter, Buddy Bell and Wayne Cagle rapped consecutive RBI singles in the sixth inning off Dick Tidrow and Andre Thornton delivered a pinch hit, two-run single off Sparky Lyle in the eighth. Wise gave up singles to Mickey Rivers and Thurman Munson in the first inning and then retired 18 consecutive batters until Chris Chambliss homered in the seventh.

Brewers 2 A's 1 Mike Caldwell scattered eight hits and Don Money singled home Charlie Moore with the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning. It was Caldwell's fifth victory, matching his total for all last season, and his fifth complete game.

White Sox 6 Angels 2 Chet Lemon and Lamar Johnson hit consecutive homers in the third inning off Frank Tanana as the White Sox posted their fourth straight triumph, while the Angels lost their fourth in a row for the first time this season.

1971—Ephraim Elrom, Israeli consul-general to Turkey, was found shot to death in Istanbul after being kidnapped by leftists May 17.

1972—Arthur Herman Bremer, 21, was indicted for the May 15 shooting of George Wallace, governor of Alabama and presidential candidate.

Twice Italian

CANNES (Reuters) — Ermanno Olmi's film Tree of Clogs today won the Cannes Festival's top prize, the Golden Palm Award, giving Italy its second first-place success in two years in the French international film festival.

The runners-up award was shared by Britain's The Shout, directed by Jerzy Skolimowski, and Italy's Bye Bye Monkey by Marco Ferreri.

Best actress award was shared by Jill Clayburgh for her role in An Unmarried Woman and France's Isabelle Huppert for her part in Violette Noziere.

Best actor was John Voight for his portrayal of a paralyzed Vietnam veteran in Coming Home.

As the young players get in better shape with more practice the play improves - it shows. This player is on his way before he has netted the ball. The Sharks won this game against Johnson, Barclay and Scaiffe with a score of 8 to 3.

Local swimmers return from Stockton California

Twenty local swimmers have just returned from Stockton California with an impressive trail of victories.

Northern Swim Association members from the Terrace Bluebacks, Kitimat Marlin, Rupert Amateur Swim Club and George Barracas went to Stockton on "an incentive meet" competition, according to coach and chaperone Sharon Lewis.

Sharon took eleven Barracas, four Marlin, four Rupert swimmers and one Blueback on the competition which boasted an entrant list of 4,771.

The ages of the swimmers ranged from under 10 to 18 years. The lucky twenty that travelled from this area were all the 10 to 18 age group.

Official standings are not available yet, Sharon explains, because they must be mailed up from Stockton.

Some individual bests were: from Prince George, 17 year old Brad Dalke, who swam first in the 400 metre free, 100 metre fly, second in the 200 individual medley, third in the 200 fly and 200 free, as well as seventh in the 200 breaststroke.

Also of George, 16 year old Shaun Stoddard, placed third in the 100 and 200 breaststroke's.

Janis Blocka, 17, placed second in the 100 breaststroke, Tom Laurie, 16, pulled second in the 100 backstroke and 14 year old Lance Candale, also of the Barracas, placed third in the 100 free, fourth in the 200 individual medley, fifth in the 400 and 200 free's, sixth in the 200 back, seventh in the 100 back, eighth in the 200 back and ninth in the 100 breaststroke.

Enough on the outstanding Barracas, now onto the superstar of the Marlin club, (that's not to say there's only one).

Diane Barbetti of the Marlin, a 12 year old swimming close to provincial times, took first in the 50 and 100 metre breaststroke's. She also placed sixth in the 200 individual medley. For any statisticians; the 50 was in 39.8 seconds, unofficial.

PROTECT CANADA'S FORESTS

How many uses for your glass containers can you find in this picture? Your kitchen is a veritable glassworks!

Take a moment and count up the glass containers in your kitchen closets, refrigerator and freezer. Surprised by the number? You have a veritable glassworks in your home! And glass works for you, too, doing double duty to make your life easier and prettier. Here's how:

Practical Glassworks
Take dinner, for example. It might include meat sauce over pasta, salad with mushrooms, vegetables, garlic bread, fruit cocktail, and juice or wine. Buy your sauce, mushrooms, salad dressing, vegetables, fruit cocktail, juice and wine in glass containers. Since clear glass lets your eyes do the shopping, you buy just what you need—freshness, quality, quantity and cut style—avoiding those "what-did-I-buy" surprises when you open them at home.

If it's a barbecue, make sure you've stocked up on jars of barbecue sauce, ketchup, mustard, pickles, relishes, mayonnaise, soft drinks and beer. Who needs to dash out for that last-minute purchase when the food's on the grill? Just pull it from the closet and refrigerator, knowing that its flavor is locked in by one of the most natural food packaging materials available. That insures purity and taste. And resealing your jars for the next meal is a snap. Just recap! You never have to change its container (that means less dishwashing later for you!). And there's no waste.

A TRAVEL FEATURE FROM TOURISM BRITISH COLUMBIA

HOODOOS ON THE THOMPSON

by Murphy Shewchuk

Interested in carved stone columns of ancient civilizations but can't afford a trip to ancient Greece or Rome?

Well, fret not. B.C. has a wealth of colorful and intriguing stone and clay columns—often called hoodoos—and some of the most interesting stand in the Thompson Valley.

A trip along the Trans-Canada Highway, from Chase to Lytton, with the occasional detour, will give you the opportunity to see more sculptured works of this nature than any holiday in Europe.

The only difference here is: instead of an ancient human artisan working the raw material, nature is the sculptor; instead of a chisel and mallet working marble or granite block, cliffs of stone or clay are worked by wind, rain and frost.

Using materials deposited 10,000 years ago by melting glaciers, the drier climate became the artist.

Summer winds, winter frosts and the occasional rain storm—the area has less than 25 centimetres of annual precipitation—continually carve the cliffs, creating a multitude of pinnacles and columns that excite the imagination of anyone who has ever made castles in the sand.

The most famous hoodoos in the area are spread through the valley's length.

To the east is the tall, slender pillar of Pillar Lake, near the backroad between Chase and Falkland.

The gravel road parallels the Trans-Canada Highway, but on the north side of the South Thompson River, between Chase and Kamloops, passes along the bottom of cliffs that play host to hundreds of picturesque clay columns.

The cliffs along both the shores of Kamloops Lake are carved in many places into a maze of multi-colored pinnacles.

This clay-and-gravel hoodoo is located in the Deadman Valley north of Savona.

The river from Savona to Lytton passes through a deep canyon in spots which have also been artistically carved by nature.

The colors are breathtaking, varying from deep red through gold, orange, brown and cream to slate black.

The most photographed hoodoo of all stands on the hillside about 5.5 kilometres east of the mill at Savona.

Thousands of picture postcards have been sold showing this 20-metre, stone-capped pyramid.

Known locally as the Balancing Rock, it resembles an eighteenth century soldier with a tri-cornered cocked hat.

The balancing rock is less than a half-hour's walk from the highway, if you are interested in a closer look.

Park your vehicle off the roadway opposite the skeet range. 5.2 kilometres east of Savona, and follow the pair of tire tracks down toward the lake, gradually angling eastward.

You will soon spot the stone-capped column on the north side of a gully that angles across the slope in the direction of Kamloops, at the east end of the lake.

A fairly good trail leads right down to the stone soldier and, with a little bit of effort, you can work yourself into a good picture-taking position.

There are many similar works of nature's artistry throughout the valley.

A trip on a rubber raft down the river or via Canadian Pacific or Canadian National railways will reveal others not visible from the highway.

An important point to remember is that the hoodoos on the Thompson are a fragile reminder of the semi-desert climate.

Treat them with respect so that others may also be able to look at them.

40 YEARS OF CO-OPERATION IN CONSERVATION

For 40 years Ducks Unlimited (Canada) has been co-operating with Canadian landowners and governments, who provide long-term, no-cost leases, to create, restore and preserve quality habitat for waterfowl. Over $48 million, generated mainly in the United States, has been invested to develop more than 1400 waterfowl projects, involving some 2.6 million acres of prime wetlands and more than 10,000 miles of productive shoreline. DU projects also provide direct benefits to many other wildlife species, to the agricultural community, and to anyone who simply enjoys nature.

RED OSIER DOGWOOD (Cornus stolonifera) — Found across Canada, this attractive shrub has smooth red bark. In spring, small white flowers bloom which form white berries; these are much sought after by birds such as robins, thrushes and catbirds. In fall, the leaves turn dark red, but before reaching this stage, take on various patterns in greens, yellows and reds. This shrub likes damp locations and grows to considerable size, spreading from the roots to form a maze of interlocking branches and stems. "B" shows a typical two-color patterned leaf.

FROM TOURISM BRITISH COLUMBIA

FAIR WEATHER AHEAD

By Shirley Guth

June 5-11/1978

June's forecast: warming temperatures, fair days—in practically every town.

Like Nanaimo's Medieval Fair, June 11; when merry days—and knights—live again at the Crow and Gate Pub grounds south of town. Lords and ladies cheer on authentically-dressed jousts and their mounts; archery and falconry test every yeoman's mettle.

Browse among craft booths. Sample medieval foods: pasties, tarts and barbecued meats. In the evening, an authentic, medieval guinea-hen-and-trout feast: no forks or spoons allowed. The middle ages resume at 10 a.m.

Bathrooms mean good, clean fun at the Ganges "Capt. Cook" Seacaper, June 9-11.

Capers start on land Friday night with a Teen Disco dance, and a "Capt. Cook" parade Saturday at 10 a.m.

At 11:30 a.m., it's the bathtub races at Ganges harbor's four-kilometre course; pit stops at the Grog Garden and Saturday evening's clam/oyster bake and lamb/pork barbecue mean delicious refueling. After a Sunday-morning pancake breakfast, try to stay on top of things in the Walk-On-Water contest.

Fun and Highland Games in New Westminster, June 10, when Highland dancing, bag-piping and Scottish-drumming competitions start at 8:45 a.m. at the Queen's Park Arenex. Massed bands keep toes tapping; a beer tent, whistles wet.

It's a toss-up when men compete at tossing the caber and women at tossing the hagus. Other gamesmanship highlights pillow fights on a bar six feet off the ground and the tossing of the "56 Weight Over the Bar."

An old-fashioned Ceilidh Saturday evening warms up with Scottish dancers, pipers and singers. Games admission is $2; dance, $4.

Up the sunshine coast: lively arts in Powell River. The curtain goes up on prize-winning dramas, comedies and musicals at the Provincial Drama Festival, June 6-10.

On stage, twice each evening, are "the best amateur theatricals you'll ever see," says an organizer, including "Godspell" and "Gamma Rays and Their Effect on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds."

Tourists with only a night to spare should choose Saturday—Honors Night—when three picks-of-the-week are presented. Tickets for the performances at the Recreation Complex on Joyce Avenue are $3.50 (Honors Night, $4.50). Reserve at 485-2891.

Good eating at Lake Cowichan's "Celebrations", June 9-11: a salmon barbecue on Friday evening, a free pancake-and-sausage breakfast Saturday morning, and chicken barbecue Sunday afternoon.

More fun gets cooking at the "Capt. Cook" parade Saturday morning. Log-bucking-and-rolling, tree-climbing and ladies' nail-driving contests follow at the noon Loggers' Sports.

A visitor may win a Reno trip at the Community Hall's Saturday night dance-casino. If not, there is always Sunday's water-skiing demonstration on the lake and kite-flying at Kiwanis Park.

Still other festivities this week: Vernon: "Creative Chaos", June 9-11. Some excellent buys at the Okanagan's largest craft show as 100 artists sell their products. "All are high-quality. Visitors can expect bargains of at least one-third off store prices," says an organizer.

Billed a "family affair", it includes a Creative Corner to amuse children while parents enjoy performing artists—barbershop quartets, fiddlers, choirs, bands and dancers. "Chaos" occurs at the Recreation Centre, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Sunday, noon to 6 p.m.

Glanville "Capt. Cook" Fun Days, June 9-11. A "Capt. Cook" parade Saturday morning kicks off a fun weekend: a midway; Scottish, Hawaiian, Chinese, Japanese and Spanish dancers; teen and adult dances; a pet show; a pancake breakfast; a bingo-and-beer garden. It's at the Juan de Fuca Recreation Centre, a few kilometres west of Victoria.

Elkford's Alpine Days, June 7-11. B.C.'s beautiful Alpine-like peaks are the scenic backdrop for festivities: "Capt. Cook" parade, craft fair, dance, games, beer garden and pancake breakfast. The Recreation Centre is the place, 35 kilometres north of Sparwood on Highway 4.

B.C. fairs—friendly places to visit in the spring, when June comes in like a festival.

Today's Cryptquip clue: V equals T

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FUDGE-TOPPED RICE CUSTARD

- 4 cups milk
2 cups cooked rice
1/4 cup flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Topping*

Scald the milk. Add rice. Blend flour, sugar, and salt. Add scalded milk, stirring until smooth. Cook about 5 minutes over medium heat. Stir a little hot milk mixture into the eggs. Blend all into milk mixture and cook about 1 minute. Add vanilla. Turn into a greased 7 1/2 x 12 x 2-inch baking dish and bake at 300° for 40 minutes. Cool slightly before spreading with Topping*.

*TOPPING

- 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons milk
2 ounces melted unsweetened chocolate
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 cup chopped nut meats

Beat sugar, salt, and milk together. Add chocolate, butter, and vanilla. Blend well. Spread over rice custard; sprinkle with nuts. Allow to set before cutting. Makes 10 servings.

FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 2, 1978

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) Reflexes, intuition and business acumen should be keen now. Especially favored under day's influences: research, merchandising, all business transactions.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21) Day calls for your best judgment. You may feel "lukewarm" about some suggestions made, but look into them anyway. They COULD prove of value.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21) Others may be overly aggressive, pressing for their "rights" to the exclusion of yours. Watch your own interests. Don't let anyone push you around.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23) Fine influences! Enterprise, resourcefulness and initiative should spark the day and give you a brand-new outlook on all activities.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23) Be prepared for competition, opposition to your plans. If aware that these exist, you can start the day with the premise that you CAN manage them — and you will!

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) More gains indicated than you may anticipate. But there will be SOME obstacles, so pick your way alertly and cautiously, but without anxiety.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Searching for offbeat avenues toward achievement could lead you astray now. Do the best you can in your own field and gains will be yours.

DEAR ABBY: My wife died 18 months ago, and this lady I'm interested in has been a widow for three years. We knew each other "way back when." I'm 66 and this lady is 68.

Before I renew our friendship, I'd like to ask you a few questions. Since her husband died, she's had several men staying with her (one at a time) in her one-bedroom trailer. I've also heard that she has visited an old farmer at his farmhouse (just the two of them) for days at a time.

Last week she headed for Colorado with another old buddy in his camper truck. She said she planned to sleep in motels on the way, and he would sleep in the truck; she didn't say where they would sleep once they got to Colorado.

Now, Abby, I don't want to marry a woman who has a bad reputation. She's the talk of this little town, but she is really a very high-class lady and everybody likes her. What is your advice?

FRANK IN FLORIDA

DEAR FRANK: It seems almost a disservice to the community to take this aging swinger out of circulation—if indeed you could. But if you regard this woman as a "high-class lady," any advice I could give you would fall on deaf ears. And your vision isn't too good, either.

DEAR ABBY: I have recently moved into a high-rise apartment, live alone, and have a problem that I imagine other single girls who live alone must have. (I am 20 and am saving myself for marriage.)

When my date brings me home, should we say good-night in the lobby, where the doorman, night watchman and tenants can watch us? Or should I ask my date to walk me to my apartment door and say good-night there? Or should I invite him to step into my apartment to say good-night?

When I first moved here, I let my date step into my apartment to thank him for the lovely evening and it ended up in a one-hour wrestling match. I had a terrible time getting rid of him.

Please answer soon as I have no mother to ask.

SAVING MYSELF IN TULSA

DEAR SAVING: A girl's date should always see her safely to her door. Don't allow anyone to "step inside" if you have any doubts about how he will behave once he's inside. Even the most careful girls sometimes misjudge a man, so should you find yourself with the "wrestling" type, don't say "good-night"—say "GOOD-BYE!"

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl who has a very unhappy home life. My folks have been fighting ever since I can remember. They treat me like dirt, and I want to tell you, it is miserable and rotten.

My boyfriend, Brad, is 18, and he comes from a home that's even rotter, if there is such a word. His folks not only fight all the time, but his father beats on his mother. Anyway, Brad has been crazy about me ever since 7th grade and we are thinking of getting married when he graduates from high school in June. He plans to work days at a garage and go to trade school for mechanics at night. He's real good with cars and motors.

Should I quit school and get a job when Brad graduates? I'd have only a year to go, and could finish later. We wouldn't have much money, but we wouldn't need much, and at least we'd have each other. I need advice. Thank you.

TEARS ON MY PILLOW

DEAR TEARS: Don't use marriage as an excuse to get out of the house—no matter how "miserable" it is. I urge you to finish high school while you have the chance. The "later" you mention rarely comes. Children usually do, instead.

Music, drama featured in CBC summer season

OTTAWA (CP) — A new popular music variety show from Halifax and an extension of the widely-acclaimed British situation drama series Duchess of Duke Street raise the curtain Thursday night on the CBC-TV network's summer schedule.

The Halifax show, deliberately misspelled by the CBC as Denny's Sho, with an asterisk in place of the "w," features Denny Doherty, who was lead singer with

The Mamas and The Papas in the 1960s.

Doherty recorded 13 half-hour programs with such popular stars as Murray McLachlan, Ken Tobias, Salome Bey and Moe Koffman. There's already talk of doing another 13 for next summer if the series makes a mark on the viewer charts.

Since The Mamas and The Papas broke apart, Doherty has rattled around Los Angeles and New York, producing one of two records and doing a show or two. But it is only in Denny's Sho that he has had such exposure since the 1960s.

Michelle and John Phillips—the last remaining members of the group along with Doherty since the death of Mama Cass Elliot in London in 1974—are featured in the first edition of the new show.

After Denny's Sho Thursday night, Gemma Jones returns as Louisa Trotter, the Duchess of Duke Street, for the first of 16 hour-long episodes.

This is the story—said to be a true one—of a London scullery maid who learned such skill as a cook that the then Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, was captivated by her food, her looks and her body. He set her up in a hotel in Duke Street in London, catering to the aristocratic trade only.
